William Gillette, in a speech before the curtain at the end of the first performance of "Sherlock Holmes," in New York, last Monday night, said: "The dramatist, as we all know, is not really a student of the drama; he is a student of the public. He must learn what it likes and dislikes. As I have indicated, it likes villains-and it certainly ought to have them. If I ever write another play-which I quite agree with you in hoping I won't-I fully intend to make all the people in it desperate and annoying characters."

"Criminal Aggression."

BOSTON, Nov. 9.-Edward Atkinson in an Interview regarding the results of the recent elections said: "It is too early yet to draw many conclusions from the election as affecting the anti-imperialist cause, but there is one conclusion quite apparent, especially in Ohlo. The administration is in a minority. The atrocities of the Philippine war are condemned. If the efforts to subjugate the Philippine islands should drag on until the next election, which I very much doubt, all members of Congress of either party who support criminal aggression will be defeated in Ohio and also n other States. Fate of the Boer Republic. LONDON, Nov. 10 .- As was anticipated, Lord Salisbury in his speech at the lord mayor's banquet last evening said practically nothing that would throw light on the ultimate fate of the Boer republic. The speech was of commenting rather than of meaning that the national rights of the republic will be respected in the final settlement. It thinks his words "will fall with soothing effect on Dutchmen in South

The streets were lavishly decorated with flags, but the absence of a detachment of the household cavalry and the substitution of a number of schoolboy brigades testified to the presence of the veteran regiments at the front. A car representing Great Britain surrounded by her sons, the Canadian and Australian volunteers, evoked hearty applause, as did the boys of the Duke of York's Royal Military School. The crowds, however, wanted khaki uniforms and refused to be reconciled with the lord mayor's coach and other emblems of purely civic power. pay death losses. That is the true meaning of the term and is what the world generally understands by realizing on a policy. The earning of dividends and the payment of endowments to the living, great a factor as they have grown to be, and pleasant as they are to the recipients, are but secondary to the main function of life insurance, which is protection to the family. Nobly, indeed, is this fundamental idea being carried out and upon a scale little realized. The forty-six regular companies of this country are now paying to the beneficiaries of deceased policyhoiders a week.y average of over a million and a half dol-

No Necessity Exists for Aid from the Treasury-Shipments to the Interior -Changes in Interest.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 .- The Evening Post says: Reports of possible further action by the treasury to relieve the stringency in money market rates at New York excited general comment in banking circles to-day. Bankers generally agreed that no such crisis as would call for relief measures on the part of Washington authorities had been reached, since the banks were able to supply all mercantile demands for money, and that whatever stringency existed resulted mainly from requests of borrowers who wanted to speculate with small resources. An officer of one of the best known downtown banks said: "There is no special demand on the banks from the mercantile community for accommodations. Country banks are not asking New York banks to rediscount paper. For this reason I can see no reason for intervention by Secretary Gage at this time. The principal demand for money just now comes from speculators who want to do more perhaps than their means justify. Should the way be opened for relieving the situation in that quarter it might result disastrously in the end. New York banks can take care of Local banks arranged to-day for the transfer of $400,000 to New Orleans in spite of the new charges making such remittances cost 40 per cent. more than formerly. The banks disagreed in their views as to the volume of out-of-town currency shipments, some institutions reporting the move-ment as slack, while one of the largest lanks told of requests from St. Louis and New Orleans aggregating a larger amount than yesterday. A Canadian bank received to-day remittances aggregating $75,000, in payment of Western gold. The action of many stock exchanges in charging actual rates of interest on cusomers' accounts for October and September will be followed this month by practically all the stock exchange houses. All of them spoken to to-day announced that they will no longer restrict their interest charges to customers to 6 per cent., but will charge them the actual rate and will not carry stocks unless their customers are willing to pay the cost of carrying. The objection made by customers to this course is that for years brokers have reaped immense profits from their interest accounts, some of them charging 6 per cent., when call money ruled steadily at 1½ to 2 per cent. The point was made to-day regarding the deposits of internal revenue receipts with New York banks that in order to receive such funds the banks would have to put up government bonds, which they do not possess. They have now on hand free in such securities only $500,000. In order, therefore, to obtain the collateral they would have to either borrow the bonds or purchase them outright. If they tried to purchase them the price would immediately advance to such an extent as to make the transaction unprofitable.

CHURCH EXTENSION.

Methodist Board Reports & Prospering Activity.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 9 .- The annual meeting of the Church Extension Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church began to-day in the First M. E. Church. In the absence of Bishop Foss, who is detained in Philadelphia by illness, Bishop Thomas Bowman presided at to-day's session. Aside from the acceptance by the general committe of an invitation extended through Bishop Hurst from President McKinley to attend a reception to be held in the White House on Thursday of next week the feature of the day's session was the report of the Board of Church Extension. It was read by Rev. J. C. McConnell, of Philadelphia. An increase of more than $1,800 was reported in conference and of more than 37,000 in the general fund. Total receipts for the year were more than $350,000. Loans were returned during the year to an amount more than $100,000. A number of unproductive properties were disposed of, and the money invested in productive properties. It was reported that since its organization the board had received more than $6,500,000 and had aided 11,301 churches. A gift of $250 to frontier churches will secure the erection of buildings worth $1,250 each The Board of Church Extension reported an effort to raise $1,000,000 for church extension as a part of the twentieth century move to erect 1,900 churches, one for every year of the Christian era. "His temperament was a happy one, Those who had business to transact with him found him always kindly, and gentle, and generous. It was his fortune in the law, in many instances, to serve the unfortunate and the poor and to save them from imposition. Being distinctly a gentleman, he had a fine scorn for those who imposed on the ignorant and the helpless, and he was not content until the wrong he discovered had been made right. He was a modest man, not too modest for his own good, for the world loves a modest man, but his modesty delayed the coming of the success that was inevitably to be his. He made no pre-tensions to scholarliness, although, in the fullest sense, he was a scholar. Except by becoming a member of St. Paul's Church, he made no outward assertions of the doop
